GIST OF THE RAILROADS' CASE

As Presented to Senate Committee is That Transportation Act is O. K. and That Darkest Hour Has Passed Industrially.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, D. C., May 10.—In connection with the hearing undertaken before the senate committee on interstate commerce in Washington today, T. DeWitt Cuyler, chairman of the Association of Railway Executives, authorizes the following statement:

The presentation of the railroad case will be under the general charge of Alfred P. Thom, general counsel for the association, and among the first witnesses he will put on the stand will be Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, and Julius Kruttschnitt, chairman of the board of the Southern Pacific Company. They will be followed by other witnesses prepared to deal with all phases of the railroad situation.

In a general way, the following will indicate the spirit which will pervade the testimony to be offered by the railroads:

The transportation service of this country is passing through a crisis. It is not a crisis peculiar to the railroads of the United States. It is a situation of world-wide incidence arising from perfectly understandable causes, most of them having their origin in the world war.

Feeling, as we do, that the world has definitely turned the corner of its most acute depression, so we feel that the railroad situation has likewise passed through its darkest hour and has now definitely turned for the better.

The last congress in passing the transportation act, placed upon the statute books the most constructive measure dealing with our transportation situation which had been enacted into law in the past 15 years.

The transportation act has not broken down; the present difficulties of the railroads are not due to the transportation act, and the transportation act provides effective machinery for remedying, insofar as it may be done by national legislation, the difficulties in which the railroads now find themselves.

The managements of the railroads do not approach congress or the American people asking for any amendments in existing national legislation. They desire to make perfectly clear their present situation, and the measures they are taking and propose to take to work their way out of existing difficulties.

The railroad managers regret that the operation of inexorable economic laws makes it necessary that railroad wages should be reduced. But the railroad managers have no fight with their employes and the supreme aim of every railroad management in America today is to establish its relationship with its employes on a basis of friendliness and cooperation which will result in work at satisfactory wages for the largest possible number of men and in an efficient and economical service to the public.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has a clear understanding of the real nature of the American transportation problem and has evinced its desire in cooperation with the public and with the railroad managements, to work out the difficult problems of regulation in a manner which will insure adequate facilities and complete protection to public interest.

The public also is manifesting a disposition actively to cooperate with the public and with the railroad managements, to work out the difficult problems of regulation in a manner which will insure adequate facilities and complete protection to public interest.

The public also is manifesting a disposition actively to cooperate with railroad managers.

Railroad managements are fully aware of the feeling in many quarters that certain railroad rates are excessive, and the unremitting effort of the railroad managements of this country is to provide service of such economy and efficiency that it can be rendered at a rate which will promote the movement of the largest possible amount of traffic.

The responsibility of railroad management is of course not alone to give low rates, but to provide adequate facilities. In times of prosperity the adequacy of facilities is of more consequence than the rate itself. So that if the railroad managers assent to a schedule of rates in time of depression which make it impossible for them to provide adequate facilities against a period of prosperity, they would be recreant to a duty they cannot escape.

The public and the congress may rest assured that the railroad managers are straining every nerve so to reduce their expenses that they may be able at the earliest moment to adjust rates to changed economic conditions, and certainly to the end that no individual rate shall be so high as to interfere with the normal movement of a community.

The railroads have just emerged from a year of extraordinary expenditure, expenditures so large that even with greatly reduced freight revenue they were unable to earn an appreciable sum upon the actual investment in American railroad property.

The railroad executives will explain to the senate committee the reasons for these expenses. The railroads will show specifically that the greater part of the increased expenses of 1920 are due to causes over which the railroads had no control. The railroads will also show, I believe, that they are rapidly surmounting their difficulties and from now on will realize a progressively improving situation.

The eyes of the railroads are turned to the future, and the railroad managers are confident that as a result of the hearings before the senate committee there will be a far better understanding on the part of the public of the whole railroad situation.

POLES COMPEL SILESIAN QUIET

But Armed Germans Are Pouring in by Thousands and Clash on Big Scale is Feared.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, May 10.—The Polish government, following out the wishes of the Allies, is taking energetic steps for the restoration of peace in Upper Silesia, according to a Warsaw dispatch to the Daily Express today.

Adelbert Korfanty, Polish commissioner in Upper Silesia, who proclaimed himself dictator of the province following the Polish uprising, has issued a proclamation at Beuthen urging the population to return to work. An Oppeln dispatch to the Daily Express said that armed German civilians were pouring into Upper Silesia and that a clash on a big scale between the Poles and Germans throughout the whole district seemed inevitable. The Oppeln correspondent of the Daily Express estimated that 18,000 armed German civilians had arrived in Upper Silesia.

Five casualties resulted when French troops fired upon German civilians at Oppeln, said a dispatch from the Berlin bureau of the International News Service. The Germans were maltreating a Polish insurgent at the time. One of the victims was a seven year old boy.

Lare numbers of refugees from Upper Silesia are being sent into the interior of Germany by the inter-allied commission at Oppeln. The allied commissioner said they could not guarantee the fugitives a safe return to their homes.

MARINE STRIKE MEDIATION FAILS

Shipping Board and Owners Firm for 15 Per Cent Wage Cut Which Men Absolutely Reject—May Lead to Policy of Open Shop.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, May 10.—The marine strike appeared today to have settled down to a test of strength between marine workers and the ship owners.

All efforts at mediation have gone on the rocks of the 15 per cent wage reduction. The marine workers refuse to accept this reduction and the ship owners and the United States Shipping Board refuse to make any concessions.

Secretary of Labor Davis will not hold further conferences in an attempt to negotiate a settlement, unless some new proposals for agreement are made.

Both sides claim to be strong in their positions. Reports which reached the headquarters of the marine workers here indicate that ships are being tied up, while the shipping board maintains that the interference with operation is not great.

Should the present controversy be prolonged it is possible that it may lead to an open shop policy on American ships and probable further wage reductions. Admiral Benson and representatives of the ship owners have both claimed that the 15 per cent reduction was not adequate and that further reductions were proper because of lower living costs, and if the present crisis is met there may be an effort at even further wage reductions.

FOUR BROTHERS BURN TO DEATH

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Boston, May 10.—Trapped on the third floor of their home in North Cambridge early today as they frantically fought to escape the flames that roared up through the floor under their feet, four sons of Mr. and Mrs. Justine Trembley perished. The dead:

Ledger Trembley, 21 years old; Ernest Trembley, 19 years old; Warren Trembley, 14 years old and Lester Trembley, 12 years old.

Three other children, Edna, Viola and Leonard were rescued, the first two by firemen and the last by the father.

When the fire was discovered by Patrick Griffin, who was delivering milk in a house in the rear, smoke was pouring from the upper windows. He dashed for help and found Sergeant William Curtin and Patrolman Joseph Riengran and David L. Walsh. Sending in an alarm they raced back to the house but by the time the firemen reached the scene the upper part was a raging furnace.

Poles Apologize To Italy.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Rome, May 10.—The Polish government today expressed regret to the Italian government over the killing and wounding of Italian troops in the Polish uprising in Upper Silesia. (More than 100 Italian plebiscite troops in Upper Silesia have been killed and wounded in fighting with the Poles.)

"Y" ANNUAL BANQUET AND MEETING ONE OF MOST SUCCESSFUL YET HELD

Former Secretary Thornberry Adds to Pleasure of Speeches and Reports by Unexpected Presence and Congratulates Secretary Safford on Success of His Administration—Auxiliary Did Themselves Proud.

A fine dinner, well served; admirable reports; an overwhelming program; a very large attendance were the outstanding features of the banquet and annual meeting of the officers and members of the Central Young Men's Christian Association held at the association building Monday evening.

The banquet was served upstairs and the assembly room presented a charming appearance as the guests entered, the long and well appointed tables being decorated with clusters of La France rose buds. A delicious menu had been prepared and was thoroughly enjoyed by all present, the ladies of the auxiliary being the gracious waitresses of the evening.

Mayor Palmer Canfield, Jr., president of the association, presided and called upon the Rev. Dr. Putnam Cady to ask the blessing. At the close of the banquet, Mr. Canfield called the attention of all present to the statistical reports to be found on the leaflets which had been distributed and which show such encouraging progress along all lines of Y. M. C. A. activity in the city. He then asked for a report from Mr. Matthews, treasurer of the board of directors, and it was given as follows:

Mortgage on building....	$15,000.00
Reduction on mortgage beginning current year ..	400.00
Balance in bank to be paid on mortgage	268.11
Endowment Fund	11,500.00
In Rondout Savings Bank for Endowment Fund..	72.22

The next report was that of Louis Beeres, chairman of the nominating committee, and as a result of his report and the unanimous vote that the secretary cast a ballot for the entire slate, the following men are members of the board of directors—For three years, J. W. Millard, S. M. Watts, William C. DeWitt, W. S. Eltinge and W. H. Van Slyke. For two years, Charles Ramsey and Dayton Murray. For one year, N. H. Fessenden.

As a summing up of the work of the local association for the year, Mayor Canfield called upon Secretary Safford to speak of the actual work.

Mr. Safford tersely and wisely called attention to the fact that for the most part when we speak of the Y. M. C. A. we mentally visualize the building and the equipment, etc. The real Young Men's Christian Association is no material object or objects but the men and women who make up the officers, directors, trustees, members of the association, who having the real interest of the boys and young men of the community at heart, do all in their power to increase the membership among the boys and young men who should be enjoying the privileges and advantages of the association; increase the working and needed finances, and spread abroad what the name implies, a Christian influence. Attention was called to the outdoor religious services held last summer on the Sunday evenings of July and August (when there are no Protestant Church services) in front of the Y. M. C. A. building. They were so successful that they will be repeated this year. Secretary Safford promised, through the aid of those present and those doing the actual work of the organization, even greater, better work the coming year.

Secretary Safford's report was followed by a violin solo by Mrs. Florence Cubberly accompanied by W. Whiting Fredenburgh, and throughout the evening the addresses were interspersed with other solos by Mrs. Cubberly who is indeed an accomplished musician, whose playing is both excellently interpretative and technically finished and satisfying.

For a brief moment, Mr. Safford assumed the reins of leadership and called upon the mayor to speak on the subject, "Guard the Gate," the city seal. Briefly recalling the history of our city and thus giving the reason for the motto, the mayor, said that while we no longer need to guard the gate as at the beginning of our history, we do emphatically need to guard it against encroachments upon Americanism; upon the best of education; upon the sanctity of law; upon the honor of our flag; upon the sincerity and genuineness of our religion. But we need to do more than guard the gate, we need to provide the right stimulus for better citizenship in the future, and this he counted our Y. M. C. A. to be doing.

Now, the mayor had been allowed ten minutes in which as president of the association, to speak, but he generously spoke but six minutes in order to give at least three minutes to former secretary Francis L. Thornberry, now secretary of the Niagara Falls Y. M. C. A., who was present. When Mr. Thornberry arose he was given an ovation that lasted for some time. Mr. Thornberry said that when he found that he would be attending the great Y. M. C. A. Convention in New York he wrote Secretary Safford that he thought he could stop off at Kingston and say hello, if it would be convenient. While the constitution of the Y. M. C. A. said nothing about the presence of ex-secretaries at annual banquets, and with other speakers who usually talked for at least an hour, Mr. Thornberry's usual fifty-five minute speech would stand a poor showing still, he said, Mr. Safford made him welcome, and he was mighty glad to meet the old friends and companions again. Recalling the first annual banquet four years ago, Mr. Thornberry was warm in his congratulations upon the increased attendance Monday evening, and the evident growth and success of the Kingston Association under Secretary Safford. After relating two amusing ancedotes that called forth much laughter and witty passages at arms with Dr. Cady, and Mr. Goodman, Mr. Thornberry closed amidst much applause.

The next speaker to be introduced was Frederick Goodman, of the Home Department of the International Committee of the Y. M. C. A., who spoke on "The Projection of the Y. M. C. A." Of this greater organization there are 19 departments; 100 of these organizations are in America; there are 200 in foreign countries and 50 specialists are in the service. This international organization is most significant for three reasons; we have learned, business men have learned that the need of the hour is not more factories, more corporations, more material increase, more business, but more education based upon the teachings of Jesus Christ, and this international organization is discovering groups of young men everywhere and of every sort and bringing the Christian educational influence for physical, economical, religious betterment to them, especially to the great groups of foreign-born young men. Second, the international organization is a channel for cooperation of unmeasured magnitude, connecting us up with the world's needs. Third, it is a great factor in distribution, a clearing house for young men's activities. Its great objective is to make disciples of Christ, for there is no way of peace but the way of Christ. It inspires men with larger ideals and gives them morale, and in closing the speaker quoted a definition of "morale," which ended with these words, "The perpetual ability to combat," and the international organization is offering the power of Christianity to young men as the best known "perpetual ability to combat" all obstacles.

Another speaker who is always welcome to any Kingston audience was State Secretary Frank Pearsall, who gave most interesting "Snap Shots of State Work." The state organization is made up of thirty-five prominent Christian business men from all parts of the state, H. H. Flemming being Kingston's representative. Mr. Pearsall then briefly but very pleasantly as well as photographically introduced his nine associates in the state work, telling of their departments of work. He showed the vital need of reaching a great untouched number of young men in all of our cities, especially to larger cities, and he put it up to the Y. M. C. A. to determine whether in the future good or evil shall come to our land from the vast numbers of foreign speaking young men; from the country lads who are flooding into our cities taking what sort of characters with them? The employed boys, numbering 380,000 in our state, for the future of this state and this country during the next ten or twenty years will in great measure depend upon these lads today between the ages of 16 and 19. This character forming job is the program that the State Y. M. C. A. has undertaken to put over with our boys and young men, every last one of whom, like all of us need the gospel of Christ, the friendship of God.

Emphasizing the international Y. M. C. A. movement, the next speaker to be introduced was a man but recently returned from the Orient where, like Dr. Axling, he spent twenty years, but in this case in Y. M. C. A. work, Gallen M. Fisher, foreign Y. M. C. A. secrtary. And it might well be noted in passing that if twenty years in the Orient for an educated, enterprising, Christian young man can turn out such a product of alert, "efficient," masterful yet sympathetic and graciously Christian manhood as is to be found in both Dr. Axling and Mr. Fisher, the pity is that more of our best young American manhood cannot have a like experience.

Mr. Fisher said that while he did come from the work in the far east, still he belongs to the Y. M. C. A. of America, New York state, Kingston, as the result of the projection of the Y. M. C. A. into the farthest bounds of humankind. Mr. Fisher congratulated the local organization on its splendid showing. Calling to mind Roosevelt's words that there were three great ocean movements in the world, one centering about the Mediterranean; the other bordering on the Atlantic; the third grouped about the entrance to the Pacific, and while the speaker recognized the value of "Guarding the Gate," he thought that "Open the Gate" was an equally good motto, and Gounod's "Send Out Thy Light" an even better one. Living on the Pacific coast, it was his ambition as a youth to go to India and insofar as he was able to carry the light of Christianity to the mass of educated men of the great eastern continents. It had been his privilege to do a little of this work. He found that as scientific knowledge came more and more to the ken of these educated men of the Orient, their faith in their old religions crumbled

CITY IN 3D CLASS; STORES IN FIRST

County and City Residents Will Vie With One Another in Supplying Their Needs From Big Array of Bargains Thursday.

Kingston shoppers find Kingston's stores are superior to those in most cities of our size and compare favorably with those of the big cities both in regard to quality, prices and service.

The reason for the excellent position Kingston stores occupy is based on a sound business principle; mutual confidence that is not betrayed. The buyer in Kingston's stores has learned from experience that advertised goods are what the merchant represents them to be, and the merchant has learned from experience that shoppers are willing to do their part in keeping business active and thus creating prosperity for the entire city and every resident of the town.

Because this mutual confidence between merchants and buyers has been established so long a time, there is every reason to believe that the concerted action of the merchants of the city in observing Dollar Day on Thursday, with special sales in every department, will result in one of the busiest business days of the spring. The merchants have bought thousands of dollars worth of new stock of all kinds in anticipation of the success of the sale, and the men and women of Kingston and Ulster county have been making plans for taking advantage of the lower prices which merchants are enabled to offer on account of buying in large quantities for the Dollar Day Sale.

Bargains in practically every line of merchandise sold by the merchants of the city will be found on sale on Thursday, and the advertisements of the merchants in The Freeman tonight and tomorrow night will be equally as interesting as the news columns to everyone who is looking to save money.

That Kingston will be visited by hundreds of shoppers from all sections of Ulster and adjoining counties is indicated clearly by letters received by merchants and by many Kingston residents. Friends from out of town have notified many Kingston women of their intention to spend the day in Kingston in order to take advantage of the Dollar Day Sales and many a family reunion will be held "between times."

Kingston stores always look attractive. They will look even more so on Thursday, but the most attractive thing of all will be the bargains which merchants are prepared to offer to al buyers on that day.'

DEAL IN GRAPES LEADS TO COURT

And DeMarco of Newburgh Is Asking $2,500 Damages From Apuzzo Of Ardonia For Malicious Prosecution—Trial Now On In Newburgh.

Trial of the suit of Frank De Marco of Newburgh against Giuseppi Apuzzo of Ardonia, Ulster county, for $2,500 damages for malicious prosecution, was in progress in supreme court, Newburgh Monday. The case arises out of a deal for the purchase of grapes last October, De Marco having agreed to take several tons from Apuzzo's vineyard He says that Apuzzo gradually raised the price from $110 a ton to $115 and then to $120. He refused to take any at the last named figure and demanded that Apuzzo return $100 he had paid on deposit. Apuzzo refused, but gave him $100 worth of grapes instead.

Next day, Oct. 21, De Marco was arrested in his garage on Mill street Newburgh, by Constable Davis of Plattekill, on a warrant sworn out by Apuzzo before Justice of the Peace DeWitt Ostrander of Clintondale the warrant having been endorsed by Recorder Decker, and the constable accompanied to the Mill street garage by Patrolman Mullarkey. De Marco was taken in the constable's automobile to the police station in Newburgh and later in day was accompanied by his counsel, D. Clinton Dominick, to Ardonia, where they waited two hours for the complainant to appear. Instead of insisting on their legal right to a hearing on the charge made by Apuzzo that De Marco stole grapes, they consented to an adjournment of a week, at the end of which time they returned, but Apuzzo didn't make an appearance then either. Subsequently he started a civil action in Supreme Court, Ulster county against De Marco to recover the value of the grapes which in the warrant sworn out in justice's court he had charged De Marco with stealing.

Apuzzo, whose attorney is Francis J. Greco, denies any malicious intent, and says he acted on probable cause, and with a view to protecting his rights.

Edward Rhinehardt of Poughkeepsie was arrested by Officer Soper Monday on a charge of driving his car thirty miles an hour. He gave bail for his appearance Thursday.

NO U. S. TROOPS TO INVADE RUHR

Rumors Denied in Washington—8,500 Americans Now On Rhine Will be Brought Home When They Have Carried Out Duty of United States Under Armistice Terms.

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Washington, May 10.—While the United States again is taking part in the deliberations of Allied statesmen on post war problems, the participation of this country distinctly does not embrace the use of American troops for any purpose which now is discernible from Washington.

Officials made this clear today when reports were called to their attention which hinted at the possible use of American troops in case of an Allied advance into German territory, and in the serious disorders which have broken out in Upper Silesia.

The American forces under Major General Henry T. Allen now on the Rhine, numbering around 8,500 are going to remain there until the administration decides they have fulfilled their mission under the terms of the armistice of November 11, 1918. Then they are going to be brought home, it was stated today. They will not be called on to do any fighting unless some one deliberately picks a quarrel with them and officials here do not see any such contingency as that arising.

It would be manifestly impossible it was pointed out here, for the American forces to take part in any general Allied advance into German territory. If the Allies order their troops into Germany it would be to carry out the provisions of the treaty of Versailles, of which this government is not a signatory. Likewise if the Allies send additional forces into Upper Silesia, it will be to carry out the provisions of the treaty and the league, in which this government has only an academic interest.

The American government, it was emphasized, is interested in the pacification of the various toublesome factions solely because it believes that the sooner everybody is pacified, the sooner the world will return to a state of normalcy politically and economically.

The Allied troops now in Upper Silesia are generally known as "League of Nation Troops." The principal countries composing the league were levied upon to contribute men and arms to safeguard the "self determination" proviso of the league. The United States, not being a member, was not called upon to furnish any men and, it was emphasized today, certainly has no intention of mixing up in the affair in a military way.

NEW LABOR CRISIS FACES BRITAIN

Transport and Railway Men Refuse to Handle Foreign Coal Brought in to Break Coal Strike—Government Mobilizes All Its Resources.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, May 10.—A new labor crisis menaced Great Britain today and the government acted to meet the revived threat of a general strike in sympathy with the coal miners. The government is making preparations to take over Hyde Park and convert it into a great military and transportation center for the distribution of the necessities of life.

Military lorries, operated by soldiers, may be utilized for the movement of coal and food. An elaborate plan has been worked out for the relief of the public if the railway men and the dock workers join the miners.

Transport workers and railway men throughout the United Kingdom are refusing to handle foreign coal. The railway signalmen have served formal notice that they will not handle trains bearing sea-borne coal.

Following a meeting of the cabinet on Monday night the railway companies were ordered to make arrangements "to carry out their duty as public carriers."

A conference was held between Secretary Williams of the Federation of Transport Workers and Sir Eric Geddes, minister of transports, but no progress towards a settlement was made. On the contrary Secretary Williams announced later that "he would do his best to tighten the embargo against foreign coal."

A complete stoppage of shipping is threatened as a result of the coal shortage and the complaints of seafaring workers who threaten to join the general strike if it come to pass.

This was the fortieth day of the coal strike, which, it is estimated, is costing the country about $8,000,000 daily in loss of mine production, loss of wages, property deterioration and unemployment doles.

MRS. JANSEN SUES FOR $10,000

Says Mother And Sister Of Her Husband Alienated His Affections—His Answer Alleges She Lost Love Through Neglecting Wifely Duties—He Sues In Nevada—An Old Kline Case Reappears.

Supreme court reconvened Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Judge Harold J. Hinman presiding. The trial of the case of Tripo Krstovic of Cementon against C. H. Van Buren & Company, an action on broker's contract, was taken up Judge Jenkins with William D. Brinnier, Sr., and Augustus Shufeldt appear for the plaintiff and Judge A. T. Clearwater and John W. Eckert representing Sullivan & Cromwell of New York appear for defendant company. The action grows out of a stock deal in which Mr. Krstovic invested certain moneys with John D. Kline, who formerly conducted a brokerage office in Kingston, and when he failed to make good an action was brought against Van Buren & Company whom it is alleged Mr. Kline represented.

A jury was taken Monday afternoon and the case was continued today. The case has been up in the courts before and has been sent back from the court of appeals for trial.

When No. 179, Susan A. Jansen against Emeretta Jansen and another, was called Monday afternoon Judge Fowler moved the case over on the grounds that one of the defendants was ill. The motion was opposed by William D. Brinnier, Sr., who appeared for plaintiff and asked that time be given in which to have another physician examine the defendant and determine if the illness was of such a serious nature as would prevent the defendant coming to court. Judge Hinman granted the motion.

The action is brought by Susan A. Jansen against Emeretta Jansen and Carolyn Jansen, mother and sister respectively of Oscar Jansen, husband of Susan Jansen, to recover the sum of $10,000 for alleged alienation of affections of plaintiff's husband.

Mr. and Mrs. Jansen were married at Crawford, Ulster county, on January 19, 1912, and resided for a time on the farm of Emeretta Jansen near Wallkill. They have two children. In September, 1920, the complaint alleges "that the defendants wrongfully conspired and wickedly contrived to injure the plaintiff, and to wrongfully deprive her of his affections, comfort, society, protection and support, maliciously planned and undertook to alienate the affections of plaintiff's husband, and to accomplish said purpose acquired an improper influence over him, induced him to leave and desert plaintiff and said children without means of support and protection, and as a result thereof the plaintiff's said husband did abandon her and said children without means of support and left plaintiff without notice to her, and his present whereabouts are unknown to her and thereupon, the defendants did require and cause plaintiff and the said two children to leave their home without any provisions for their maintenance, and did express themselves to plaintiff as approving the abandonment of plaintiff by her husband."

Since the time of the serving of the complaint in this actin, notice has been served upon Susan Jansen through the courts of Nevada of an action for divorce brought by her husband on the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment, Mr. Jansen in the action for divorce claiming Nevada as his home.

The answer sets forth the facts that Oscar Jansen always treated his wife in a kind and considerate manner but that she disregarded her marriage duties, failed to perform the usual duties of a wife in and about the farm, insisted upon living beyond the means of her husband and constantly quarreled with her husband and on several occasions left the bed and board of Oscar Jansen and without cause brought an action against him for support, by reason of which he lost his affections for Mrs. Jansen and after making provision for her support and maintenance of the children left home.

Mr. Brinnier, who appears for Mrs. Susan A. Jansen, the plaintiff in the action, stated in court Monday afternoon that Mr. Jansen when he left home did make provisions for a time for the family. That checks were left by him for certain weekly payments to Mrs. Jansen and that sum had been paid to her but was exhausted and at the present time Mrs. Jansen had no means of support. At the time Mrs. Jansen was living on the farm near Wallkill she worked not only in the house but in the hay fields. He further stated to the court that the matter should be placed before the grand jury and an effort made to bring Mr. Jansen back.

Judge Joseph M. Fowler appeared for A. J. Fowler of Newburgh, who represents the defendants in the case.

FREEMAN WANT ADS. BRING RESULTS

WHEN A DIVORCE IS NOT A DIVORCE

Tragic Entanglements For Innocent Parties Who Are Not Well Advised Regarding Divorce Laws.

An action for divorce presenting interesting and important questions of law was tried before Judge Hasbrouck at Saturday's special term of the supreme court. It was the case of Fannie L. Brandow against Bruyn M. Brandow, both residents of Catskill, where Mr. Brandow conduts a large restaurant and ice cream parlor. Percy W. Decker appeared for the plaintiff, and Judge Clearwater for Mr. Brandow.

At the opening of the case Judge Clearwater said the facts presented a pathetic situation. On the 5th of December, 1894, Mr. and Mrs. Brandow were married at Catskill. They had two children, who are living. After several years they separated, Mr. Brandow maintaining his wife, paying all her bills and expenses, and educating the children for eleven years. At the expiration of that period for reasons it was unnecessary to enumerate, he went to Reno, and on the 20th day of April, 1917, in the Second Judicial District Court of Reno, in the county of Washoe, Nevada, filed a complaint for a divorce against his wife, the complaint and the summons being personally served upon his wife at Catskill. She did not appear in the action, and on the 12th day of June, 1917, the District Court of Nevada granted him an absolute divorce, forever dissolving the bonds of matrimony, and restoring his wife and himself to their original status as single persons free from any matrimonial obligation either of personal contact or financial support.

After that in the state of Connecticut, he was married to Anna Delamater, and since that time had lived with her as his wife. Of course, said the judge, there was no adulterous intent, and morally speaking no adulterous act.

Judge Hasbrouck asked if the actual domicile of both parties to the first marriage had been Greene county. Mr. Decker agreed that it had been.

Said Judge Hasbrouck, "If that is so, I think the case is controlled by the opinion of Chief Justice White of the Supreme Court of the United States in the case of Haddock against Haddock."

"Well," said Judge Clearwater, "under that decision the second marriage would be good in Nevada, but invalid in New York."

Judge Hasbrouck said Haddock against Haddock has long been his guide in actions of divorce involving disputes as to the jurisdicton of the courts of different states, and he must adhere to the view announced by Chief Justice White in that case, and therefore hold Mr. Brandow's second marriage to be invalid in this state.

"I rather apprehended that would be your honor's view,'" said Judge Clearwater, "and Mr. Decker and myself will relieve you from any trouble over the question of alimony and counsel fees. We have agreed in event you should apply the doctrine of Haddock against Haddock, upon the amount the defendant should pay." Judge Clearwater said "this was a case where three people of irreproachable character and excellent social standing were helplessly involved in a tragic situation because of a gross misconception of the power of courts to grant divorces; that it was a common error of many lawyers to advise men and women to go to other states, remain there for the limited period of time which the state fixes for the purpose of acquiring a residence, and then to begin in that state an action for divorce against a husband or wife living in this state. A number of the western states require but a six months' residence for this purpose, and while the divorce is good in the state in which it is granted, it is perfectly worthless in any other state; that lawyers giving this advice are apt to predicate it upon what they think is the protection afforded by the constitution of the United States, which provides that full faith and credit shall be given in each state to the public acts, records and judicial proceedings of every other state."

This, he said, they erroneously construe to mean that the judicial proceedings in any state are binding upon residents of every other state, losing sight of the fact that it is not so binding unless the state in which the judicial proceeding is conducted obtains jurisdiction of the person against whom the judicial proceeding is initiated. Unless such jurisdiction is obtained. the decree had no extra territorial effect. Thousands of homes are ruined and lives and fortunes are wrecked by an erroneous construction of a most important constitutional provision.

It was agreed that findings should be framed by Mr. Decker, submitted to Judge Clearwater, and then presented to Judge Hasbrouck for his approval, that they should be so framed as to avoid the imputation of intended immorality upon the part of either Mr. Brandow or the lady he married subsequent to his Nevada divorce.

"Y" ANNUAL BANQUET HELD

to dust almost without exception. Nearly half of the population of the world is to found in the Asiatic empires and republics, yet color makes little difference in the eye of God. The individual colors of the spectrum when thrown together produce one great white light, and in his twenty years of living among them, Mr. Fisher said he found the eastern men to have just as white, just as true and loving hearts as the men of his own land. Christian and social reconstruction is the tremendous job to be accomplished in the far east. India today contends with awful afmine and indebtedness—60 per cent interest on small loans especially, being no uncommon thing, so that a vast number of the people live and die under the burden of a hopeless debt. The speaker's opinion of Ghandi, a man now considered one of the great men of today, was that as the result of his non-cooperative self-government, yet without violence teachings is by no means a saving doctrine. Not yet ready for self-government and independence, the grave danger is that he is starting an enormous stampede of the thousands upon thousands of illiterates which he will never be able to control.

Then taking his audience over to China, the speaker showed them equally appalling conditions; famine and, if possible, a worse political anarchy than was to be found in Europe in the darkest ages. China lacks right leadership. Militarism and commercialism are today overmastering the great enterprises of this vast empire, even its religion is mercenary, and only the strongest Christian influence and self-control of its teachers can bring any order out of that chaos.

Passing on to Japan, Mr. Fisher, like Dr. Axling, recalled America's entrance, through Colonel Perry, into Japan, nearly seventy years ago. While backed by the force of his guns, if need be, Perry, with kindliness and rare tact showed that we insisted upon Japan coming into the circle of great nations and extending her hospitality and joining in the reciprocity of the world. He, too was emphatic in his statement, that by no means the great mass of the Japanese people but a little military clique has been and is responsible for the most of the Japanese trouble as far as the outside world is concerned, America in particular. This clique was back of the Shantung problem; back of the Korean horrors, against which the mass of the people, especially the young people have and are raising a great objection. What is most needed throughout the entire Orient, according to Mr. Fisher, is the capturing of the leadership in the different countries by Christian young men and women and the Y. M. C. A. with its educational, economic and religious training is producing just such young men, who will dominate the East of the future, and bring about that liberal movement that will prove the unseating of militarism. This exceedingly able and inspiring address, for Mr. Fisher is a man of exceptional personal magnetism, was brought to a close with a brief account of Mr. Fisher's colleague in Japan, who is now the general secretary (native) of the entire empire, and who is doing a mighty work in the interest of Christian internationalism.

The last speaker of the evening, Colonel Axton, Y. M. C. A. Army officer, and head of all the chaplains, surcharged his tiring audience first with a suggestion that they rise and get a bit of physical change of attitude, then with his own compelling enthusiasm and dynamic power. Of course he talked of war, and in the first place described an army camp—not ours—beore the war, showing the darkest side of such life with its attendant evils.

Then he showed the conditions of our army and navy in camp or on field making clear an immeasurable contrast. Said he."Great ideas perish when not embodied in great societies, and great societies perish unless moved by great ideas." That had been seen to be very true of the religious work of young men for young men, through the saving power of Christ. And so becauso they had been entrusted with men, money, materials in the past, and had men with the forward vision to be able to see around the corner of the future, the Y. M. C. A. was prepared long before the army and navy to enter the war field of the World War, and its secretaries were ready to meet General Pershing on the other side prepared to tender the services of the Y. M. C. A. The colonel was just back from Germany where he had gone to see for himself the actual state of the welfare work among our men still "over there," and he found that they were being royally looked after, not by the seven great helpful agencies of the war times, but by the Y. M. C. A. and the Salvation Army. And certainly the Y. M. C. A. had had a "taking" way with them for at Coblenz they had simply grabbed the beautiful Festhall and turned it into a great Y. M. C. A. camp for our boys. Going back to the war times, the chaplain said that in spite of some of the deserved criticism the general impression of our men as to the character of our Y. M. C. A. secretaries who went into the front line trenches, unarmed, while the other men, friend and enemy alike, were armed was forcefully if not elegantly expressed by one service man who said, "I tell you that it takes guts to do that thing." The speaker then paid a splendid tribute to Secretary Safford for his equally splendid war work as a transport Y. M. C. A. worker and leader.

Colonel Axton closed his thrilling address with two characteristic true personal experiences of Y. M. C. A. secretaries during the late war. At the front a boy had been brought in terribly wounded and the general secretary had been asked to go at once and see what he could do for him. He went, and when he had asked the lad what he could do for him, the young fellow said, "Well, if they sent you to me I must be pretty bad. Am I going to die?" The secretary as gently as possible told him that he was indeed in bad shape, and that the surgeon did fear that he would die, which was the reason of his wish to do for the lad what he could. The soldier told him to get his blouse which was near him and find his pocketbook in a certain pocket. The secretary went for it, already planning what sort of a letter he must write to the mother or sweetheart whose address he was sure to find therein. What he did find was a ten dollar bill. He said, regretfully to the doughboy, "Why, there is only a ten dollar bill here." "I know it," said the boy, "Just give it to me, please." He did. The boy folded up the note carefully, lengthwise, and holding it out to the secretary said, with spirit, in spite of his terrible suffering, "I just want to bet you this ten dollar bill that I don't die." He didn't and the secretary lost the bet.

Again—Colonel Axton was at the port of embarkation throughout the entire war. During the war, and the darkest period of the war, there were brought into the harbor on the Moorish Prince fourteen men who had escaped when the Ticonderoga was sunk by a submarine, the sinking of which was not made a matter of general news at the time for obvious reasons. He and others of the chaplains went out at once to offer any possible aid or comfort to these men who had been on the, to them, uncharted seas, in an open boat for six days before being rescued. When they asked what they could do for the men, they supposed that the first request would be to have letters written home, or for clothing, etc. It was not. What was most wanted was that their spokesman should tell their story to the chaplain. It was this in substance. When they found themselves absolutely alone in their boat, surrounded by wreckage only, with no human thing in sight and no knowledge of the sea, they took counsel among themselves as to what best to do. They determined to carry on their military usages, and appointed one of their number of fourteen, their leader. Then they appointed another to have charge of the rations that they might be conserved to the greatest possible extent, still allowing the men to live. Then the question was asked, "How many of you men believe in God? How many believe in the power of prayer?" and it was found that all of them did. They then decided to tackle the job of their salvation which must come through a power higher than their own, by military order and system also, and each man was assigned his time to be praying, so that there should be no time when prayer was not being offered in their behalf, by some one of the men. Even though the days went by the praying never ceased and they began to feel as though a mighty tow line was pulling them to safety, and at the end of six days they were saved. As a result of the experience, the speaker told the chaplain that if any man dared to say in the presence of any of those men that there is no God, they would throttle him that the blasphemy might be stopped in the saying.

In spite of the pessimists, Colonel Axton was firm in his expressed belief that "God and the soldier," was today more firmly entrenched in the heart of the world than ever before.

Before the gathering adjourned, the mayor, in behalf of the association thanked the ladies who had served them at the banquet, the musicians and the speakers of what he considered the most wonderful speaking feast that had ever been held in the Y. M. C. A.

Work! It's the only way you can beat the game

Spirituality is one thing, intellectuality another, but Christianity is not to be forgotten in the reckoning. It counts.

Summer is coming. It is about here. The thing to do is get all the fun out of it and when fall comes 'round don't say that you wish you had done this and the other thing, when it is too late

We are all doing a lot of thinking just now and it is good for us. There was a period when it seemed as if we had given up thinking. When we think we use our brains. That we are giving a few serious thoughts to conditions is what will bring us back to normal.

The fact that the moving picture men said they would be willing to clean up the business proved that the business needed a little cleaning. Had they not been forced to admit this there would have been no occasion for censorship. This was the view Governor Miller took of the proposition and there doesn't seem to be much doubt as to the fact.

The big man is never afraid to give the other fellow credit for what is accomplished. In an address before one of the local organizations in Albany last week Governor Miller stated that the legislature had done its work well, that the members had sought in every possible manner to help do the things that were promised. The governor generously said that without the help of the legislators the purpose he had in mind could not have been carried out. He was unstinted in his words of commendation of the law-making branch of the state government.

SMOKERS REASSURED

The "fragrant weed" counts its devotees in all classes of society, in all organizations whether religious, civic or social, and it is reasonable to infer that no few of these, startled by current rumors, have of late undertaken to express themselves in at least moderately vigorous language. However that may be, a statement issued by the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church assures all interested persons that that body is not engaged in a crusade against tobacco. The W. C. T. U. has also issued a statement in which it "brands as untrue" the charge that it is "engaged in a secret campaign for an amendment to the constitution prohibiting tobacco." Similar disavowals are made by the International Reform League, the Anti-Saloon League, the Southern Co-operative League and the National Reform Association.

As all these organizations convey the impression that their activities are confined to educational propaganda and the enforcement of state laws against the sale of tobacco to minors (to which latter nobody can object), it really looks as if scared smokers may now indulge their habit with a contented mind and sleep in peace with no more affrighting dreams of a tobaccoless era to come. It may still be worth while for smokers to keep a weather eye open, however, for there is no telling what may finally be accomplished by an "educational propaganda" showing tobacco to be a poison.

THE LAW TO PANAMA.

Panama has been virtually an American dependency ever since President Roosevelt assisted it to cut loose from Colombia. If any lingering doubts are entertained in this connection, they are likely to be removed by the final note of Secretary Hughes to Panama regarding the Costa Rican territory seized by the former state. The New York Herald describes the note as "an explicit command" and the New York Times says Mr. Hughes acted "in the dual character of Secretary of State and Judge." Panama is notified that unless it voluntarily restores to Costa Rica the improperly occupied territory the United States will proceed to make the transfer itself by means of whatever action "may be requisite." This is clearly an act of justice to Costa Rica, whose right to the territory in question was established by the White award following investigation of the boundary dispute, but at the same time it shows the position of Panama to be that of an American dependency rather than an independent republic.

The new "republic" of Panama having been immediately recognized, the Roosevelt administration entered into a treaty to "maintain" Panama's independence, but of course did not engage to support it in case it should elect to go gunning for new territory in the preserves of its neighbors, or bully them in the name of its great protector of the North. Panama may or may not now awake to an intelligent understanding of its independence with a string to it, but in any case will have to surrender the spoils recklessly acquired at the expense of Costa Rica.

AGRIGRAPHS.

Uncle Ab says that the man who helps to scatter sunshine never stays long in the shadows

"Tillage is manure," according to an old English proverb. Certain it is, that both make crops grow.

One bird man declares that insects make up two-thirds of the food of the birds. Yet some farmers still think that birds are their enemies instead of friends

You can't start forests from stumps, any more than you can start wheat from stubble. If we are to have timber in the future, we must grow it as systematically as any other crop.

A study of one of the best agricultural counties in New York state shows that 55 per cent of the farms have automobiles and that over 50 per cent of the use of automobiles is for business purposes.

Not every family has a garden, unfortunately. Those who have, can sell their excess fruits and vegetables if they will let folks know what they have to sell through a little ad in The Freeman.

"A strong back and a weak mind" may have been a good enough formula for success in farming once, but it isn't any more. Successful farmers study their business; over 1,400 are taking the free agricultural mail courses from the state college at Ithaca.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Model Very Attractive for Slender Figures.

Pattern 3101, cut in 3 sizes: 16, 18, and 20 years is here depicted. Blue crepe de meteor was used for its development, with bead embroidery for decoration. This would be nice in brown satin or crepe, with embroidery in colors. The 16 year size will require 5⅜ yards of 35 in. material, with 3 yards of ribbon or material 5 inches wide, for the sash. Width of skirt at lower edge is 1½ yard.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or 1c and 2c stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

MRS. STILLMAN IS CONFIDENT

She And Attorneys Profess To Be Undisturbed By "Revelations" Made In Letters Published—Rounding Up Canadian Witnesses.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, May 10—Determined to fight to the finish Mrs. Fifi Potter Stillman today gave final instructions to her counsel for the round up of Canadian witnesses who she says will riddle the testimony given by others for her husband, James A. Stillman, multimillionaire ex-president ofthe National City Bank, in his suit for divorce. One of Mrs. Stillman's attorneys is expected to leave for Canada tonight.

Undaunted by the developments of the last ten days which owing to the aggressive tactics of her husband's counsel tended to put her on the defensive, Mrs. Stillman and her lawyers declared their confidence in the outcome of the great legal battle unshaken. They professed to be utterly undisturbed by yesterday's publication of what is alleged to be at portion of Mrs. Stillman's "letter of confession" to her husband, in which she was quoted as saying "Fred has come into my life."

Efforts were made in some quarters to throw doubt on the accuracy of this and other quotations by describing them as "only a paraphrase, and a mild one at that."

In the legal camp of Mrs. Stillman there was no appearance of concern over the publication, nor of other parts of the famous "exhibit A" be published. Friends of the ex-banker's wife who are familiar with its full contents went so far as to say that if the whole text of the letter were made public it would affect her case only sympathetically in spite of any implications or inferences opposing counsel might endeavor to derive from it.

LIMITS INTEREST ON AWARDS.

No Interest Allowed on Damages For Use and Occupation.

The appellate division of the supreme court at Albany last week handed down a decision affirming an order of Judge Howard in denying interest on an award for damages for use and occupation of property which afterward was acquired by the city of New York.

The real estate involved in the proceeding was owned by Chester A. Plattner and was situated between Prattsville and Grand Gorge. It was required by the city for the Gilboa reservoir but before acquiring title, the city entered on part of the property in connection with the construction work. Plattner made a claim against the city for damages for the use and occupation of the land by the city up to the time it acquired title under the water supply act, and damages for such use and occupation were awarded by the commission which tried his claim.

The award for the real estate which was acquired in fee carries interest, but Mr. Plattner also claimed he was entitled to interest on the award made to him for the use and occupation of the property prior to its acquisition by the city. This contention was opposed by the city both before the commission and before Judge Howard at special term of the supreme court, where the report of the commissioners came up for confirmation.

Judge Howard refused to allow interest on the award for damages for use and occupation of the property, and Plattner appealed to the appellate division, which last week affirmed Judge Howard. Frank H. Osborn of the firm of Osborn, Bloodgood, Wilbur and Freer of Catskill represented Mr. Plattner in the proceedings; William H. Grogan represented the city of New York.

BEDFORD GIRLS ESCAPE.

All But Four Recaptured, Some With Aid of Dogs.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Bedford Hills, N.Y., May 10—Singing and shouting, four of the ten girls who escaped last night from Robertson cottage of the Bedford reformatory for girls drove back to that institution today in the custody of Miss Ella Skeahan, who had captured them with the help of dogs that scared them into capitulation. Two other fugitive girls surrendered to Keeper Towers. Dr. Leo T. Baker, who recently took charge of the institution, said today the escape was an attempt to discredit his management. Four of the girls were still at large today.

During the examination of jurors to sit in the case of Tripo Krstovic against C. H. When asked if they considered Mr. Brinnier their attorney and would again go to him if they needed legal advice the five jurors all replied that they would seek further advice from Mr. Brinnier if they ever required a lawyer.

Get the Prest-O-Lite Prescription for that Bilious Battery—

Get that examination NOW!

ARE your lights dim and yellow? Do you get a lazy spark? Does the starter labor to throw the engine over? Your battery may show none of these symptoms, and still need looking over.

Tuning up the motor and putting grease in the cups and transmission don't constitute the Spring overhauling. What about the battery, the electric heart of the whole works?

It may be all right, but find out. When you do need a new battery, you'll be glad to know that Prest-O-Lite is back to pre-war prices and that an allowance will be made on your old battery.

Drive around to the Prest-O-Lite Service Station and get the correct dope on your battery's condition. That's the common-sense thing to do. A little attention now may save you the price of a new battery later.

MR. VAUX PLANS STAMFORD PARK

Well Known Local Landscape Artist To Lay Out Indian Trail Park For Village—Work On Proposed Park Starts Soon.

Downing Vaux, the well known landscape artist of this city, has been engaged by the park commission of the village of Stamford to lay out Indian Trail Park in that village, and work on the park will shortly be commenced. Mr. Vaux has had considerable experience in planning and laying out parks.

The Stamford Mirror and Recorder states: "At a meeting of the park commission here last evening, Downing Vaux of Kingston, an expert landscape gardener, was present and the matter of laying out the park, preparatory to commencing preliminary work, was accomplished. Mr. Vaux has been in Stamford for the past few days and has gone over the matter thoroughly and believes that the location and general advantages are excellent for the purpose of a public park.

The work of filling the low ground on South street will be commenced soon, and it is also planned to clean up the grounds in general lay out some public tennis courts, walks, etc., this season. Next season the work will be again resumed and by doing a little each season, eventually the park will be completed with a nominal outlay each year. It is also planned to have a skating rink during the winter if arrangements can be made to flood the low lands along South street. There will also be swings, toboggan slides, teeter boards, etc., for the youngsters, which will be added later. Mr. Vaux has had considerable experience in laying out parks, such as the Kingston Point Park, one in Canada, Newburgh, Poughkeepsie, etc., and it is believed that his wide experience in this line of work will be valuable in laying out and establishing a working plan for Stamord's new park."

EXHIBIT OF PORTRAITS

To Continue Several Days at Studio of Mrs. Reel.

The exhibition of pastel portraits by Miss Virginia Hargraves of New York now showing in the studio of Mrs. C. Gordon Reel in the Cordts building, 293 Wall street is one of exceptional interest. These soft pastel portraits seem to catch in an unusual degree the individual charm of the subject, Miss Wood being especially successful in her portraiture of children.

This artist has made and is now finishing portraits of Mr. and Mrs. George Gould's daughters Marjorie, now Mrs. Drexel, Vivian (Lady Decies), Edith and Gloria; Cornelia Vanderbilt, Mrs. Edward Shattuck, Peter Brooks, Lady Astor [illegible]. During her last visit to England she "did" Lady Ancaster, Lady [illegible]ham besides the [illegible] portrait of Lady Decies. She has just finished a portrait of Sir Robert Borden, former premier of Canada.

Miss Wood who is a guest of Mrs. Reel, has been obliged to return to New York this evening, but her pictures will be on view two or three days longer.

As these portraits do not require nearly as many sittings as the oil portrait it will be easily possible for Miss Wood to take orders for portraits here in Kingston, should they be desired, coming to this city for the sittings.

HOW TO REDUCE VARICOSE VEINS

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that there is no remedy that will reduce swollen veins and bunches.

If you will get a two ounce original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any first class drug store and apply it at home as directed you will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil is a very concentrated oil and a bottle lasts a long time, that's why it is a most inexpensive treatment. It has brought much comfort to worried people all over the country and is one of the wonderful discoveries of recent years and always bear in mind that anyone who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded. Generous sample on receipt of 15 cents silver or stamps. Emerald Oil Laboratories, Rochester, N. Y. Your druggist can supply you.

3. Do mosquitoes cause malaria?

Answers to Previous Questions

1. What happens when animals hibernate? When do they begin?

Animals hibernate when their food supply begins to be exhausted and when they feel the need of getting out of approaching cold. Hibernation is a sort of trance, during which digestive functions stop, and breathing is all but gone. A mirror held to the mouth of animals in this condition shows no clouding, and the creature can be held under water for a short time without drowning.

2 How can we distinguish the oaks?

There are about 35 varieties of oak in North America with leaves so different one would never believe they belong to the Quercus tribe. Students should collect specimen leaves and compare with illustrations from a reliable tree guide. Some tree books also give maps showing geographical distribution, which is a help in making identifications. Leaves vary all the way from the deeply lobed, common white oak, to the smooth oval of the Shingle and Live oak.

3. Do birds have eyelids?

Yes, but they are hardly visible except when the bird is asleep. Generally only the lower lid can move, and it is drawn upward to close the eye. Birds have a third "lid" in the shape of a "winking" membrane, which is drawn forward or backward over the exposed surface of the eye. It is noticeable in owls, and often in birds of the crow tribe.

PESKY BED BUGS

Bedbugs lay an average of seven eggs per day. Under favorable conditions they hatch in five days of which two-thirds are females. They mature to adult size and are capable of laying in four weeks. How many bedbugs would you have in a year if you left one female or one unmolested for one year? To rid the pesky bedbug, you can readily see how necessary it is to use a preparation that will kill the eggs as well as the live ones. P. D. Q. has been demonstrated by the leading Hospitals, Hotels and Railroad Companies that the safest and most economical way to stop future generations of bedbugs, roaches, fleas and ants is to use the new discovery "Pesky Devils Quietus" "P. D. Q."

A 35c package of P. D. Q. makes a quart, enough to kill a million bedbugs, roaches, fleas and cooties and at the same time destroy their eggs.

Impossible for them to exist when P. D. Q. is properly used. Free, patent spout in every package to get the pesky devils in the hard-to-get-at places and save the juice.

Special Hospital and Hotel size $2.50—makes five gallons of P. D. Q.—your druggist has it or can get it for you, or sent prepaid upon receipt of price by the Owl Chemical Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Success of P. D. Q. has caused imitations; genuine P. D. Q. is never peddled.

TRAGEDY OF LOVE IN 40'S

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, May 10.—Middle-aged romance ended in tragedy here when the bodies of Mrs. Mabel Thomas, a divorcee, and Nicholas Miller, wealthy furniture dealer, were found side by side in a room in Miller's apartment. Miller had been shot to death by Mrs. Thomas, who ended her own life by inhaling gas.

Miller was 45 years old. Mrs. Thomas was past 50 years old.

They had been living together for 18 months.

Before the consummation of the tragedy Mrs. Thomas wrote two letters to her friend, Mrs. Estelle Wright. In them she told how she and Miller had planned to be married but that marriage had become impossible because of Miller's insane jealousy.

Mrs. Thomas shot Miller in the back and waited for him to die. "In less than 15 minutes he was gone," she wrote.

After writing the letters she read a chapter from the Bible turned on the gas and waited to "join poor Nick in heaven where we will be sweethearts, man and wife, as we were on earth."

The bodies were found after Mrs. Wright took the letters to the police.

LEAGUE EXPLAINS ARKVILLE DEAL

Because of the many misstatements put out by interests antagonistic to the Dairymen's League about the league's relations to the Delaware & Greene Cooperative Creamery Company at Arkville, the league believes that the public would be interested in knowing the real facts, says the Dairymen's League News.

In the spring of 1919, the league received an inquiry from the Delaware & Greene Cooperative Company for information as to what the league's plans were for taking over local plants. Two men from the league visited the Arkville plant and after going over the inadequate books which the company had kept of its operations, they told the directors of the company that it was headed for the rocks. The Arkville men took exception to this statement and said that they were capable of running their own business.

At this time the league found that the sales agent of the company was selling cream at $20 a can when it was actually worth $26.50 to be made into butter. They found condensed milk being sold much below the market price. They found that the company was badly involved with outstanding debts and very badly managed. The matter was dropped until the spring of 1920, when the league was asked to take over the Arkville plant.

Efforts were made immediately to save the operation from bankruptcy and the league finally decided to take over the plant on two conditions. The first was that the local dairymen should subscribe $60,000 for certificates of indebtedness which should be used as working capital. This is one of the requirements the organization has for taking over any plant into the co-operative organization. The second requirement was that not less than 30,000 pounds of milk should be delivered daily, this being necessary for an efficient operation. Neither of these conditions has ever been met. The amount of milk delivered never came up to the 30,000 pounds and some of the time was not over 5,000. The total amount of money raised was $57,375. Statements have been made many times that the league has misappropriated this money. As a matter of fact, this money has not been used and every cent of it will be paid back to the contributors with interest.

When the league made the audit of the Arkville Company's books, it was stated by the local directors that the assets were considerably in excess of the creditors' claims, but claims kept coming in, of which the league knew nothing and because of poor bookkeeping by the local plant had no way of finding out. These claims more than wiped out the valuation of the plant. In the face of these facts that the local association has not made good under its agreement, it could not expect the Dairymen's League Co-operative Association to assume all the burdens of the local association, some of which could have been avoided had the management accepted the advice of the league experts. Had the directors of the league gone ahead in the face of these conditions, it would have penalized all of the members of the Dairymen's League Co-operative Association, whose interests they are bound to protect.

SWITCHMAN DIES OF INJURIES

John Carnati met with a fatal accident at the Ackerman cement plant between Alsen and Catskill about 9:30 this morning. He was a switchman and after throwing a switch he gave a signal to the engineer on the engine which was backing cars into a quarry which it is thought the engineer failed to see as Carnati fell in front of the cars being pushed and was run over. His body was badly mutilated and after the train stopped the injured man was picked up by men at the plant and first aid given by Drs. Goodrich and Huntington. Later he was brought to this city and just as Carnati was being carried into the Benedictine Hospital he died.

The Brown car then turned over on its side, but the young man driving escaped uninjured. The car was badly wrecked Fortunately no one was hurt in the crash.

PROGRAM FOR SYMPHONY EVENT

The Symphony Orchestra concert will be given next Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the Kingston Opera House by one of the best composed orchestras and best rehearsed ever furnished by local musicians, assisted by Madame Hanna Brocks-Oetteking, concert, oratoria and recital soprano. In the afternoon the public rehearsal for the benefit of the school children of the city will be given as usual.

Wednesday morning patrons may exchange their tickets for seat coupons at Rider's music store on Wall street, beginning at 9 o'clock and continuing throughout the day. On Thursday subscribers may exchange their tickets during the some hours. On Friday and Saturday, general tickets may be purchased at the same store and seat coupons obtained. In addition, in order that it may be possible for all interested to attend, there will be a general admission charge of 50 cents the night of the concert. This year, as in the earlier years of the Symphony Orchestra, the school children will be given tickets (that is the sixth, seventh and eighth grades of the public schools and the high school students and parochial school children) which with the payment of 10 cents will admit them to the afternoon rehearsal. These tickets will probably be distributed to all of the schools on Thursday. Following the musical memory contest, the children will be sure to take a new and deeper interest in this concert, especially as the symphony, the Schubert Unfinished Symphony will undoubtedly be included in next year's contest. It is the hope of the members of the orchestra that every seat in the Opera House will be filled with school children next Monday afternoon.

HURLEY.

Hurley, May 10.—The play "Drifting" given by the "Good Citizenship Club" of our village church came off last Friday night. It was a success in every particular and reflected unlimited credit and praise upon all who participated in making it this success. The parts taken were about letter perfect: the makeup fine, while that of the three young men assuming girls' parts was splendid. This is the first time that such parts have been taken by men and the venture shows we have the talent here. Not only were the costumes masterpieces of the dressmaker's art (arranged by mother, sister of course) in fit and finish, but the manner, carriage and deportment of these characters was about as perfect as the real thing. While the efforts of all were most highly appreciated by the audience, it is not invidious to single out these girl exceptions as having received well merited applause. The writer cannot refrain from expressing his appreciation of the hard work entailed upon the management in its care of the play. The play centers in a college fraternity house in the football season and has to do with college life, examinations, flirtations and also the struggle of a poor boy to keep up with the crowd in such a community. It gives expression to the "true college spirit" and must be seen to be appreciated. Over thirty dollars was netted from this performance. As several offers have been made to produce the play in other places, it is expected that quite a sum may be gathered in for the purpose of the club in sending members to some summer camp. The club will be glad to accept such offers.

Our village church as well as that of North Marbletown had an exceptional opportunity offered last Sunday in the presence of Mrs. Walter Roe of Colony, Oklahama, who addressed these audiences on the work among the Indians. In addition to the spirited and graphic description of such work, the speaker appeared in Indian costume, adding the final touch to her address. All those present at these meetings were most pleasingly appreciative of the opportunity and all speak in words of praise for the opportunity.

BEFORE WHITE MAN'S COMING

Eight Groups of Indians Divided the Land Which We Now Know as North America.

The North American Indians were divided into seven or eight great groups, according to their various languages. The Algonquins made up the largest family, comprising the eastern tribes of Canada and the United States south of Hudson bay, east of the Mississippi river and south to Virginia and Tennessee, including the Ojibwas, Ottawas, Crees, Algonquins and Blackfeet. The Iroquois or Five Nations of Cooper's stirring tales inhabited the east central states, including New York. West of them lived the Dakotas or Sioux, from Canada to Arkansas and from the Mississippi to the Rocky mountains. The Muskokis or Appalachians occupied the southeastern states as far west as the Mississippi; while the Shoshonis were at home in the region from Texas to Montana and from California to Idaho. The Athabascas, the Yumas, and the Pueblos occupied Alaska and Canada, Oregon and New Mexico respectively.

Thrifty Dame.

I once belonged to a club of ladies who served supper one night a month and each member was to furnish something. It was the custom for each one to take home the remainder of what they contributed (if there ever was any left). The woman I have in mind always brought butter which she had frozen in perfectly round balls. It was therefore next to impossible to take any butter, for it was too hard to cut and simply rolled all over the table, so she always returned with all her butter.—Exchange.

DIG TEN FEET, FIND PAST AGE

SOME FANCIFUL SPECULATION

Lime Deposits Yield Some of the Most Important Discoveries Ever Made in Southern California—Period May Have Been 1,000,000 Years Ago and Scene the Bed of the Ocean—Pelvic Bones of the Most Gigantic Animal That Ever Walked.

They went back 1,000,000 years in digging down ten feet on the property of the Torrance Lime and Fertilizer company, just outside Torrance, Cal. Dr. C. L. Edwards, head of the nature study department of the Los Angeles schools; L. E. Sandes, chemical expert, and S. Maus Purple, general manager of the company, spent the morning examining and appraising the various bone, shell and rock specimens as they came up in the course of a series of excavations which promise to be among the most important made in Southern California.

Although undertaken solely for commercial purposes and with a view to putting on the market the 5,000,000 tons of the highly valuable decomposed marine shell lime on the tract owned by the company, the excavations have produced marine remains covering a period of from 500,000 to 1,000,000 years before this era and have also yielded a portion of an immense pelvic bone believed to have been part of the most gigantic animal that ever walked the earth.

Drama of 1,000,000 Years.

In those ten feet of lime deposits is packed the recurring drama of 1,000,000 years. There was the bed of the ocean as attested by innumerable shell and fish deposits. There in the course of tens of thousands of years great sharks battled, falling locked in the death embrace to the bottom of the sea. There, after the waters had vanished and vegetation had sprung up, were large trees, portions of the forest remaining petrified amid other relics older by hundreds of thousands of years.

There, in tens of thousands of years, the imperial elephant, standing over fourteen feet in height and probably weighing three tons, went down to his watering place, failed on one bright day or one dark night to watch his step and bogged one foot in a lime pit, struck out in anger with another foot and his trunk, got those caught also and passed out of life into geology.

However, before the elephant had perished in the mire the saber-toothed tiger pounced upon him, sinking his 12-inch teeth into the helpless victim. Relinquishing his grip when satiated, he dropped contentedly toward what he thought would be solid ground, only to sink into the same pit with the elephant and to join that immense creature and the sharks and the infinitesimal shell forms in furnishing a story book which would be opened with pick and shovel some day any number of thousands of years later.

Tunneled Foot by Foot.

And the great wolf, too, prowled and fed there, and perished there also, as his bones, along with those of the rest, testify. Then, almost yesterday it seems, in contrast with the far-reaching records in the pits, a famished and desperate man came there seeking water and some roots.

With only crude tools—perhaps it was less than 5,000 years ago or it may have been shortly before the coming of the white man to this continent—he hit upon the frantic idea of digging back to the source of a little stream. And so he tunneled in, painful foot by painful foot, using a clumsy, heavy shale scraper, not unlike a large arrowhead in shape.

They found traces of him, too, recently, a few bones mingled with those of the shark, the tiger and the wolf, his heavy spade a little ahead of him.

Out of the depths of the same spring toward which he was striving the excavating party drank cool, bracing water in abundance. The rock that had baffled him still acted as a cistern, but it had been tapped with modern tools for modern men.

THOUGHT ALL YANKS RICH

French Girls Married to American Soldiers Disillusioned.

Marriages between American men and French girls are looked upon with disfavor by Gen. Georges Nivelle, the French hero of Verdun, who asserts that not more than 10 per cent of the French-American marriages contracted during the war have been successful.

General Nivelle says the French girls thought all Americans were rich, while the American objects to his wife's innate habit of saving money.

"While American hospitality charms the traveler, American life is not generally pleasing to the French women," declares Nivelle.

Reduced Rent Because of Wage Cut.

Tenants of Frank Rea of Whitinsville, Mass., received a shock after they had paid their last month's rent when their landlord handed them back 15 per cent, saying as their wages had been reduced they should have a reduction in their rent.

Striking an Average.

A French biologist declares that by a freezing process, somewhat similar to that used in preserving fish, the span of human life can be indefinitely extended. By going into cold storage here, we can postpone a hot time hereafter.—London Opinion.

GUNMEN'S AUTO FROM NEWBURGH

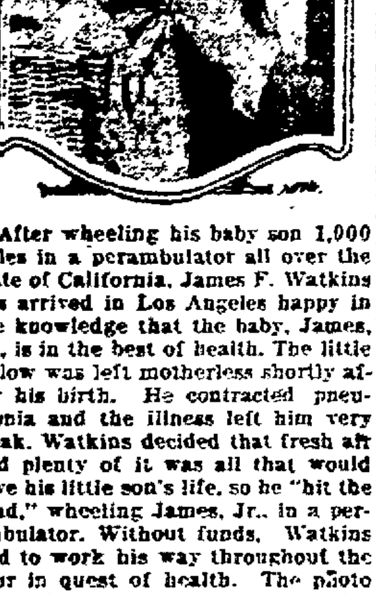
Otis Tubbs, a garage owner of Newburgh, has sworn out a warrant for the arrest of James Lyons, who was arrested by the Kingston police early Sunday morning. Mr. Tubbs charges Lyons with theft of his automobile, which was found on the Port Ewen hill near the Sleightsburgh ferry after it had been abandoned by Lyons and his companion, the gunman who later attempted the life of Policeman Kuehn when he made his daring getaway.

Lyons is now being held in the Ulster county jail under a warrant issued by Police Justice McKenzie of Port Ewen on the complaint of Percy Mott of Esopus, whose garage was broken into and whose safe was burglarized early Sunday morning.

According to Mr. Mott's story, he was aroused by hearing men tinkering with an automobile in front of his residence. He opened his window and saw two men, whom he asked what was the matter. They said they could not get their car working, and asked him to help them. While he was dressing, Mrs. Mott, who had been awakened, turned on a switch in the house which connects with the electric lights in the garage and also connects with an engine in the garage which Mr. Mott uses daily. As soon as the current was turned on, the garage was illuminated and the engine began turning with a noise which the stillness of the night intensified. The two men did not wait for Mr. Mott, but ran hastily toward their other car, which was later abandoned on the Sleightsburgh hill after they found that the Sleightsburgh-Rondout ferry was not running. Mr Mott discovered that his garage had been broken into, that the car had been taken out and that his safe had been burglarized after he had completed dressing and went outdoors.

When Arthur Bendewald was rowing the two men across the Rondout creek, a man on the Sleightsburgh side, who had seen the two men leave the car, called after them to know if they wanted him to watch the car until they returned. Mr. Bendewald started to turn the boat in order to row them back to the Sleightsburgh side when he noticed one of the men drop his hand to his hip pocket, and at the same time he told Bendewald to row for Rondout. Believing the stranger was armed, Mr. Bendewald continued toward the Rondout shore and then notified the police. The arrest of Lyons and his gunman-companion was the result, following by the escape of Lyons's companion after he had attempted the life of Policeman Kuehn.

Lyons probably will be taken to Port Ewen for arraignment before Police Justice McKenzie on Wednesday. His record is being looked up and if convicted he will probably face a substantial prison record as Ulster county has no sympathy to waste on professional criminals and believes that prompt action on the part of officials will aid materially in teaching them that Ulster county will be unhealthy place for them to visit.



After wheeling his baby son 1,000 miles in a perambulator all over the state of California, James F. Watkins has arrived in Los Angeles happy in the knowledge that the baby, James, Jr., is in the best of health. The little fellow was left motherless shortly after his birth. He contracted pneumonia and the illness left him very weak. Watkins decided that fresh air and plenty of it was all that would save his little son's life, so he "hit the road," wheeling James, Jr., in a perambulator. Without funds, Watkins had to work his way throughout the tour in quest of health. The photo shows Watkins and eleven months' old James, Jr., as they arrived in Los Angeles after their long tour.

Old Letters.

"I never knew what sad work the reading of old letters was before that evening, though I could hardly tell why. The letters were as happy as letters could be . . . There was in them a vivid and intense sense of the present time, which seemed so strong and full as if it could never pass away, and as if the warm, living hearts that so expressed themselves could never die, and be as nothing to the sunny earth. I should have felt less melancholy, I believe, if the letters had been more so."—Mrs. Gaskell, in "Cranford"

Lengthening Days.

This is due to the fact that the axis of the earth is not perpendicular to the plane of its orbit but inclined at an angle of 23½ degrees to the perpendicular. As the earth travels round in its orbit from its northernmost position the light is later reaching the same point on its surface for a time, but later on this is overcome by its coming nearer to the sun.

POUGHKEEPSIE PROTESTS GAME

Millbrook will play the Kingston High School baseball team here next Saturday and are not expected to do any better than the Poughkeepsie and Newburgh teams which have both found the locals too much for them, the slants of a youth named Caunitz playing no small part in their downfall.

The postponed game with Middletown High will be played Decoration Day, which, with the game scheduled for that day, makes a double header with Middletown

Poughkeepsie has protested the game which they lost to the local high school team on the ground that McAndrew, a Kingston player is over 21 years of age, and it is probable that the game will be thrown out or played over again.

BASKETBALL AT ARMORY

Fans Will Have Chance To See Big Calibre Teams There For First In Long Time Tomorrow Night When Colonials Meet Saugerties In Second Game of Championship Series.

Basketball followers in the city will have a chance to see two fast teams in action when the Colonial Big Five and the Saugerties A. C. quintet take the court in the local drill shed to-morrow evening. The large drill hall of the soldiers will no doubt be filled to capacity. The game will give the fans a chance to cheer a Kingston team in the local armory. It has been a long time since such an opportunity has been offered.

The Colonials will take the court with their regular line-up, Chet Dolson, Chief Murphy, Lee Gregory, Big Six Spalt, Iron Man Sills, Tommy McGrane and Nig Moxham, all players of known ability. Saugerties will in all probability have Flip Dowling, state league star, in their line-up. Big John Kelly will also use Howe, Deer, Smith, Robinson, Styles and Peters, all stars in their line. Clink Mains's All Stars and Snyder Hose Company will clash in a preliminary game, starting at 7:30 sharp. This is the third and deciding game of the series. The big game will get under way at 8:20, giving the dance lovers plenty of time to enjoy their favorite indoor sport to the strains of Balfe's orchestra.

"THE IDLE HOUR INN.

New Name of Hotel Property Sold By Stephen Fisher.

Stephen Fisher has sold to Bruno Dieze the well known real estate broker of West Hurley, his former hotel property on the Ashokan reservoir boulevard about a quarter of a mile west from Mr. Fisher's present hotel. This property which is finely situated about five miles from Kingston on the state road, is only a two minutes' ride by auto from the Ashokan reservoir. Mr. Dieze is busy having the large number of rooms furnished in a modern style the property improved and will open the place for business in about one week. He will conduct dances twice a week, will make a specialty of furnishing meals to tourists and to people from this city and cater to all in a first-class manner. He will name the road house "The Idle Hour Inn." It will be an ideal place for outing parties, there being a large dining room and there is a porch running along the three sides with a fine view.

ATLANTIC CITY LIONIZES DEMPSEY

But Champion Is Taking Best of Care of Self and Accepts Few Invitations—Avoids Surf as Muscle-Stiffening—Feels Fine and Looks It.

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Atlantic City, N. J., May 10.—"If I get to feeling much better before they rig up the gym traps I guess I'll have to put myself in the hoosegow. I'm an Atlantic City cop now, you know, and I'm ready to be tried already."

Jack Dempsey, world's champion heavyweight, was speaking. He had just come in from a ten mile hike on the road this morning and he looked as good as he said he felt.

Dempsey will get a chance to work off some of the excess steam this week. The gymnasium at Airport, his training camp, will be ready for him tomorrow or Thursday. He will start light work immediately.

Since coming here the champion has done little except roadwork. He does not go into the surf. He believes the water stiffens his muscles and he thinks swimming brings into play the wrong set of muscles for his purpose so he will do little surf bathing.

After his road work today he lolled in the sand in his bathing suit. Naturally dark skinned, the champion has little trouble acquiring a coat of tan and he is as brown as a berry already.

Jack is following the ancient rule of early to bed and early to rise. He turns in every night between 9 and 10 o'clock and is up at six in the morning. After setting up exercises he "ties into" a heavy breakfast. Then he hits the road, a dirt road that leads away from the beach and crowds. While he is on the road the champion does a great deal of shadow boxing. He will start bag punching, weight pulling and wrestling this week.

Jimmy Darcy, a light heavyweight from San Francisco, will come here tomorrow with Demspey's manager, Jack Kearns. Joe Benjamin, Pacific coast lightweight, also will be in Dempsey's camp and Kearns intends to have a big bunch of heavyweight sparring partners on hand soon.

Dempsey will work for the next ten days in a big airplane hangar at Airport. Later, when the ring has been built, he will work in the open.

Every public appearance of Dempsey here means a traffic jam. Crowd collects the minute word passes around that the champion is out walking. The police have all they can do to keep the friendly crowds from almost mobbing the title holder.

Dempsey is not accepting many social invitations although he is being literally swamped by them. He did accept a bid today to a luncheon of the Rotary Club.

"I'm glad to hear Carpentier is on his way, said Jack this morning. It means before long that we will both be in the midst of real work. The sooner the time comes for the gong to ring the better I'll like it and I'll be ready to go 45 rounds if it were necessary."

The champion is modest when talking about the fight. He doesn't like to commit himself when asked how long he thinks it will go.

"Nobody can foretell that," he said. "Naturally I expect and hope to win. I'm going in there to do my best and win as quickly as I can."

Dempsey has his own chef and eats only the most wholesome of foods. He weighed 199½ today. He will tip the scales between 180 and 185 when he faces Carpentier in the ring at Jersey City. He intends to work his weight down very gradually.

FEDS BEAT JUDEAS

The Wilbur Feds defeated the Judeas of Rondout in a game of baseball played at Wilbur Sunday afternoon. The score being 19-3. Every man of the Feds played an excellent game. The game was fast and clean. On the start the Feds proved to be too fast for the downtown boys. The Feds started to roll up the score in the last of the second inning till it reached nineteen while the visitors only succeeded in getting 3 men around the cases. George Schick, the Feds' second baseman, succeeded in driving out a home run. Frank Schick pitched the first four innings and had eight strike outs while John Johnson pitching the remaining five innings had 11 strike outs. T. McCardle, the Feds' catcher, caught a very good game as usual. J. McCardle, the Fed manager, who plays left field, was at bat seven times bringing in six runs. Weber pitched for the losing team while Millens was on the receiving end.

The Feds would like to hear from some out of town teams. And they hold an open challenge to all comers under 16 years of age. They especially would like to arrange a game with School No. 3 for next Sunday. The Feds are confident that they can hold their own with the champions. Write or call John McCardle, 34 Chapel street, Kingston, N. Y.

Mr. Emerick will also place marble slabs on the store fronts of the Carl property and lay a concrete walk at the rear of the Herzog store at 321 Fair street. MAJOR LEAGUE RACES CLOSER

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, May 10—Fandom took new interest in the major league races today.

With eastern American and western National league teams invading the rival halves of their respective circuits the first big intersectional series of the season got under way.

What the winning eastern teams will be able to show against the strongest teams west of the Alleghenies is a matter of great interest.

Coming clashes between the Giants and Dodgers against the Pirates and Cubs who are sharing the first division with them will be closely watched by National League fans.

The invasion of Cleveland by the snappy Washington Senators and the efforts of the Yankees to build up percentage against the Detroit Tigers will hold attention also.

Will Cleveland succeed in repelling the Senators and Yankees, her strongest rivals in the east? Will Pittsburgh's fast-stepping Pirates, who have lost only four games since the season opened, continue their phenomenal pace? These are questions that will be answered during the next two weeks and to the average fan it's like starting the season over again.

PRICE WAS NOT A LAWYER.

Overstated His Income Also and Could Not Provide Home.

An action to annul a marriage, presenting an interesting legal question, was tried before Judge Hasbrouck at Saturday's special term of the supreme court. It was brought by Helen S. Price against David Price.

The plaintiff claimed that when she agreed to marry the defendant she was told by him that he was a lawyer with an office in The World Building, New York city, and had an income of $150 a week. The marriage was performed by a Manhattan alderman and she discovered immediately afterward that he never had been admitted to the bar and did not have the income he had claimed. In fact, she said, she found that he was unable to provide a home for her, and as part of her religious creed prohibits a woman from marrying unless her husband can provide her with a home they did not live together. On visiting The World building and inquiring why Price's name was not in the directory of tenants or on his office door she was informed that he had moved out.

Judge Hasbrouck reserved decision. Former Senator Myer Nussbaum appeared for the plaintiff; there was no appearance on the part of the defendant.
